

Virginia's Finest

Amelia Springs Water has been awarded the "Virginia's Finest" designation by the division of marketing of Virginia's Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services. To earn the designation, the product must originate in Virginia and meet or exceed State and Federal quality standards.

Roy J. Karrell, creator and president of Visage Beauté Cosmetics of Beverly Hills, California, has chosen Amelia Springs Water for use in his treatment and skin care products. The water was selected because of its high purity and mineral content. Visage Beauté markets a line of beauty and skin care products through such stores as Nordstrom, Bloomingdale's and Neiman Marcus. Visage Beauté is a division of Revlon.

The Daily Progress

... Amelia Springs water is not unique to the world, but you have to go to the Malagasy Republic or the Soviet Union to find water with the same purity and high mineral content. . .

*Edward Johns, The Progress Staff
Charlottesville, Virginia
Sunday, August 6, 1989*

The Virginia-Pilot The Ledger Star

Danville Police Chief Neal Morris said, "Use 100 percent Columbian coffee, Amelia Springs Water and you'll have a great cup of coffee."

*Patrick K. Lackey, Staff Writer
Norfolk, Virginia
Sunday, December 10, 1989*

Springs of Virginia . . .

. . . have a long history of spas, resorts, and the "taking of water." During the 19th century, there were as many as 100 spring resorts operating in Virginia. Some of the enchanting names like "The Greenbrier" at White Sulphur Springs, "The Homestead" at Hot Springs, Shenandoah, Blue Ridge, and Amelia Springs in "Mineral Rich" Amelia County, Virginia, are but a few. Amelia County was named for Princess Amelia, youngest daughter of King George II of Great Britain in 1734.

Now, after 110 years of oblivion, the name "Amelia Springs" has resurfaced and is certified as meeting all standards set forth by "Virginia's Finest" program for bottled-water by the Commonwealth of Virginia's Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services.

Amelia Springs Mineral Water is filled at the source after being prepared for millions of years in nature's deep protected underground laboratory. The year-round cool 56° Fahrenheit water flows through hundreds of miles of nature's own protected environment from the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia toward the Atlantic Ocean and captured in "Mineral Rich" Amelia County, Virginia.

EVELAND—HOME OF AMELIA SPRINGS

Amelia Springs Water is the "no corrections used or needed" naturally sweet, spring water. It contains trace minerals essential to good health which include: selenium, calcium, magnesium, potassium, and others. The water has a healthy balanced pH of 7.4 and is classified as salt free. Amelia Springs Water—water as it should be.